SHORT BIOGRAPHY OF DR. BANIKANTA KAKATI

Dr. Banikanta Kakati, born at Batikarha village of Barpeta District on 15 November 1894, was an erudite literary figure, linguist, critic and a cultural anthropologist.

Dr. Kakati passed his matriculation in 1911 and IA in 1913. He graduated from Presidency College in the year 1915. Dr. Kakati completed his first MA in English Literature from Presidency College in 1918 and joined Cotton College as a Professor of English in the same year. He was the second Assamese to have joined Cotton College at that time. Later on he became the Principal of Cotton College in 1947. While he was still the Principal of Cotton College, he received an offer to lead the Department of Assamese of the newly established Gauhati University in 1948. Soon after joining the University he was also offered the chair of Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Gauhati University.

Besides teaching, Dr. Kakati was engaged in serious studies on Srimanta Sankaradeva and old Assamese literature. His erudite writings in the pages of Baithi, in defence of the values represented by the teachings of Sankaradeva still appeals the Assamese readers. Dr. Kakati received his doctorate degree from Calcutta University for his thesis "Assamese: Its Formation and Development" in 1935. This thesis was published in the form of a book in 1941 and is considered as the ground breaking work that established the independent identity and provenance of Assamese language. Apart from this, some of his major contributions are, to name a few, The Mother Goddess Kamakhya, Life and Teachings of Sankaradeva, Vaishnavite Myths and Legends, Purani Kamrupar Dharma Dharma, Purani Asomiya Sahitya, Kalita Jatir Itihritta, Sahitya aru Prem, Pakhila etc.

Dr. Banikanta Kakati breathed his last on 15 November, 1952 leaving a huge void in the Assamese society. He was undoubtedly one of the worthiest sons of the soil who has left an indelible mark in the Assamese literary world and linguistic discourse.

The Government of Assam has instituted this award in honour of this illustrious son of Assam to encourage the young students to imbib the ideals of Dr. Kakati and achieve newer heights in the pursuits of knowledge.
